Making Current Technologies Work For You

A major free conference sponsored by Voluntary Action Kirklees debating the impact and use of Web2.0 technologies on how we work.

Thursday 25th March / 8.45am - 4.30pm
The Media Centre Huddersfield
07 Northumberland St / Huddersfield / HD1 1RL

About the Conference.

Everybody's talking but who's listening?

Facebook? Twitter? Blogging? This major free conference will help you find the best way to make current technologies work for you and your organisations.

With more and more ways to communicate, how can we make sure that how we say things is meaningful, practical and delivers what we need? Voluntary Action Kirklees is offering you the chance to find out from people who've tried and tested current communication tools, how you can make them work for you.

This conference is about helping you to do what you do best: delivering vital services, campaigning for change and supporting communities.

Come and join the debate with colleagues from the public, private, community and voluntary sectors and meet organisations and people who are already using them with remarkable results to:

- Consult service users
- Publicise services
- Find out what people think
- Develop groups
- Campaign for change
- Share information and resources

VAK have secured funding to deliver this conference therefore delegates places are free and allocated on a first come first served basis. Please book early to avoid disappointment.
